GAINESBORO, TENN., THURSDAY, NOV. 3, 1921

AGRICULTURAL FAIR TO BE ANNUAL EVENT.

The Agricultural Fair for 1921 still remains a pleasant memory in the minds of all who attended and those that prepared exhibits. No county in Tennessee could have made a better showing of farm products, considering that less than two weeks time was given to make preparation.

Due credit is given all, who in any way assisted in making the fair a success, whether it was in entering exhibits, donating money, securing speakers, or other work.

Mr. Rogers, manager of the fair, is highly gratified over the success of the first fair, and says he is amply paid for the time and hard work he put in on working up the fair. It was through his untiring efforts that the fair was put on foot and carried thru to a successful conclusion.

The fair will be an annual event and next year everything will be on a much larger scale. The 1922 fair will be held in the fall, but at an early date than this year. All arrangements will be made at an early date and publicity given to the same.

The officers meet last Thursday and issued checks to all premium winners.

Every one loves a booster, but every one is not always ready to boost for his booster.

The booster is supposed to boost because he likes to do it—and in a great measure that is so.

The greatest booster in history, however—the home town paper—must combine with the natural liking for the boosting game, the rewards the simplest rules of business requires for the continuance of the boosting spirit.

The editor of your home town paper likes to be appreciated just as you like to be appreciated.

And how better may your appreciation be expressed than by the amount of money that goes through his cash register?

Every one in this town and community will have an opportunity to show appreciation for the home town paper during the week of November 7-12, which will be observed in every state in the Union as Unique Wedding.

At a public wedding held last night at the Oil Workers' strike headquarters, Miss Christine Stafford and Robert Lawrence Crawford were united in marriage, Rev. Fred W. Jackson, secretary of the strike committee, performing the ceremony. It was probably one of the most unique and largely attended wedding ceremonies ever held in this city, the large barracks headquarters, where it was performed, being filled to overflowing with members of the striking oil workers, the woman's auxiliary and intimate friends of the contracting couple.

The bride is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Stafford, Mr. Stafford being the president of the Oil Workers' local here. She attended the local high school and was a very popular member of of Coalinga's younger social set. She was charmingly gowned in navy blue silk dress with hat to match. Her sister Pauline acted as bridesmaid and was dressed in a simple navy blue suit.

The bridegroom was dressed in a conventional dark business suit and was attended by Wade Duncan as best man. The bride was given-away by her father.

Prior to the ceremony Miss Gladys Gray sang "I Love You Truly" and to the strain of Lohengrin's Wedding March the bridal party passed the length of the long building to a platform that had been erected beneath a bower of evergreens draped with the national colors, where the minister pronounced the ritual that made man and wife. The happy couple were the recipients of many beautiful wedding gifts, including a handsome set of community silver presented them by the Oil Workers' union and the Woman's auxiliary.

After receiving the congratulations of the large gatherings of friends presented, the hall was cleared and the evening was spent in dancing. The party did not disperse until nearly midnight.

The young couple left last evening by automobile for a short honeymoon and will go to Long Beach to make their home. Mr. Crawford is employed as a tool dresser by the Shell Oil company at Signal Hill near that city.—Coalinga, Calif. Daily Record.

Miss Stafford is the granddaughter of our townsman J. H. Stafford, and her parents are natives of this county. They have a wide circle of friends here who will be interested in their daughter's marriage.
